

Reflections of Christ, an Honest Look into Love's Mirror Weeks 10-16

Independent Study Launch

1. Reflections is a Self-care plan and now it is time to use the structure I've shown you to check in with yourself through daily affirmations and regular exploration of your thoughts and feelings. These should be done as often as you feel is warranted, but three times a day is a good rule of thumb. Thoughts are like weeds. Before long, they will take over your garden and keep it from being a pristine reflection of love.

2. Personal Note from St. Germain

3. Greetings earthlings! It has been my pleasure to whip this group into shape. Seriously speaking, we are creating something new and are not bringing the old into it. Christ only loves. If you are unwilling to leave judgment behind, then having a Christ office may not be for you at this juncture. Let me show you the door. You will be welcomed back when you are finished fighting all the things you think need to be fought. For the rest of you, please send this friend of ours in San Francisco a note to let him know that you want to move forward with us, living as your true Self, as soul. In community and unity, we can make this a little less lonely. Let's have a quick turnaround on getting on the new email list, in no more than a week's time. Mother Mary is anxious to restart her 'Flowering of Christ' series, after being gone for more than two months. Now that you're shockproof, don't be surprised if she returns sooner than initially anticipated.

4. Yours in service,

Secrets of Christ 1

1. The first secret of Christ is that we are out-of-view. We move undetected, in mysterious ways. We help in ways no one else can. We look ordinary to the human eye but are anything but ordinary.
