

Departure: The Mystery of God

June: The Sky's the Limit

Sunday, June 4, 2023 6:00 am

1. How many moments are in a day? These are all opportunities to allow God to express through you, every one. When you allow this free expression, without limitation of any type, you will be rewarded richly. This embrace will give you the one thing the ego can never give you. God will give you peace of mind. This is what the soul is there for. This is what it has waited so long to say, which is "I've got this. Don't worry. You can trust me from here on out."
2. The biggest obstacle or hurdle the soul of God must face in each human is habit, years and years of habitual dependency and reliance on the ego. This is hard to crack, but it is also where the soul can shine if given the chance. It reminds the character that it is there and that it wants to speak. If the character will listen for just a moment, then all perceived problems and stress will stop. That's the reward. The more the soul is allowed to speak and express, the more rewards of peace will result. Eventually, speaking leads to expression and expression leads to identity change. The character who was once alone to fight for itself in the world is now part of the entity of God, a functioning part of the web of love and service to itself, the All of All.
3. I've made this process sound deceptively simple, but isn't it in reality? Who or what makes this so difficult? The ego and its fuel, fear, makes this process so difficult, but remember. God made these things too because this is how it grows in strength. This is how God can express as you. This is how God can serve love in this world.
4. I will visit each of you again in July.
5. Love and peace will follow,
Mother Mary

End Time: 6:27 am
